D day beaches tour guide

Self guided tour of d-day beaches.

▲▲▲ Omaha Beach Site of the invasion's most intense battles, with statues and memorials dotting the stretch. Some consider gum to be candy. Original flavors include cherry, orange, strawberry, lemon, and lime. Each bar is made up of almond-flavored toffee and covered in chocolate, similar to a Heath bar. Dairy Milk Dairy Milk is a type of chocolate candy bar produced by Cadbury. ▲▲▲ Pointe du Hoc Ranger Monument Crater-pocked bluff giving an memorable impression of the force of the Allied bombing campaign. Spangler Candy purchased the company a few decades later in 1953, and it still makes them today. Dum DumsDove is one of the most popular brands of chocolate candy in the U.S., thanks to the ice cream truck. The company also works to empower women and fight against food allergies. Divinity Made from egg whites, corn syrup and sugar, divinity candy — both homemade and commercially produced — dates back to the early 20th century. Behind Mars, it's the second-largest candy company in the world. DagobaDagoba is a brand of organic chocolate that produces drinking chocolate, baking products, and chocolate candy bars. ▲ Ste-Mère Eglise Village liberated by paratrooper Americans, made famous in the film The Longest Day. ▲ Airborne Museum Four-building collection detailing the gutsy D-Day aerial operations that allowed the Allies to get critical support behind enemy lines. Years later, in 1986, Mars bought the Dove company, and today, it produces several assorted chocolate candies and candy bars in addition to ice cream bars. DotsDots, the movie theater gum drop staple, dates back to 1945. Today, Cadbury is owned by Mondelez International. In 1939, a man named Leo Stefanos felt it was unsafe for his children to chase the truck down the street, so he made his own ice cream bars and began selling them in the Chicago area. Some people opt to add nuts and dried fruit to it. Dip DabsDip Dabs is an old-fashioned British favorite that was produced by Barrat. ▲ Longues-sur-Mer Gun Battery Cluster of cement bunkers housing what had been one of Hitler's most critical points of defense along the coast. Dubble Bubble, Dentyne, and Doublemint are all types of gum that start with the letter "D." One of the most popular lollipop brands in the United States, Dum Dums date back to 1924, when the Akron Candy Co. in Ohio created them for kids. ▲ German Military Cemetery at La Cambe Thought-provoking burial site of about 300 mostly unknown German soldiers (the biggest of several similar cemeteries in Normandy). Today, the Tootsie company produces more than 4 billion each year. It's available in several flavors, such as English toffee, fruit and nut candy, roast almond, caramello, and milk chocolate.▲ D-Day Landing Museum Small museum that does a fine job explaining how Port Winston was built. Many famous chefs have their own recipes today, but no matter who makes it, the result is a nougat-like candy. Omaha Beach ▲▲▲ WWII Normandy American Cemetery and Memorial Lovingly tended final resting place for nearly 10,000 Americans who died on the nearby beaches, with a moving exhibit in the visitors center. Caen ▲ Caen Memorial Museum One of the world's most comprehensive WWII museums, full of artifacts, films, and compelling displays that put the Battle of Normandy into a broader context. The earliest known recipes are dated 1907 and 1915. Utah Beach ▲▲▲ Utah Beach Landing Museum Fascinating, well-designed exhibits, housed in the remains of a German bunker, comprising the area's best D-Day museum. The candy is a powdered sherbet with a lollipop inside that you can dip into the powder and lick it off. Dew Drops Dew Drops are old-fashioned fruity candies with a sugary coating. Tropical and sour flavors are also available. Daim BarsDaim bars are made in Sweden, but they've become popular in the U.S. because they're sold in IKEA stores. ▲ Arramanches 360° Theater Venue for viewing a powerful 30-minute film about the landings. Dania-Yakovleva/Pixabay Some candy that starts with the letter "D" include Dum Dums lollipops, Dove chocolates, Dots, Daim bars, Dairy Milk by Cadbury, Dagoba organic chocolate, divinity, Dip Dabs, and Dew Drops. ▲ D-Day Experience/Dead Man's Corner Unique museum designed to let visitors vicariously experience D-Day as a member of the 101st Airborne Division. Produced by multiple companies, they're typically sold in bulk in candy stores today. They're shaped like gumdrops and have a gel-like texture. Juno Beach Juno Beach Centre Thoughtful exhibits that explain, and champion, Canada's crucial and heroic role in the invasion, with the understated Canadian cemetery nearby at Bény-sur-Mer. MORE FROM REFERENCE.COM Arramanches ▲▲▲ Port Winston Artificial Harbor Remains of the amazing prefab harbor that was ground zero for the D-Day invasions. Today, it's produced by Tangerine Confectionery. Bars are available in two flavors: rich dark and extra dark, and all of the company's chocolate is sourced carefully so that it doesn't harm the environment.
