72. Tell me about a time when you failed?

It is certainly that anyone fails sometime, especially at work. For example, fail to comply with the regulations, fail to meet the deadline, fail to persuade others, fail to meet the goals... What matters more is what you learn from such failure, and the interviewer is planning to investigate that.

There are various reasons to failure: objective or subjective, a fraud, a wrong action, an omission or a lack of capacity...you don't need to be too cautious about these, as if you learn from your failure, then there is nothing to worry about.

In answering this question, first, state a situation when you fail to do something (It is better if the reason is not your subjective intention). Then state how you realized that and dealt with that. And finally, how you learn from that.

2. Where do you see yourself in five years' time? (con...)

Explain how you'd like your career to progress (e.g. 'I'd like to progress to a Senior Software Engineer' or 'I see myself being a team leader...').

If you're going for a more senior position, explain how you'd be looking to move the company forward. Have a look at their business strategy or corporate objectives before the interview, and explain how you can help in achieving them.
