Before accessing work-related details, employees must first log in to the ACES ETM system. The login process is simple, but incorrect credentials or system errors may lead to login failures. Here's a detailed guide on how to log in successfully. To ensure security, employees should always log in through the official ACES ETM website. Using an incorrect URL or a third-party website may lead to phishing attempts and data breaches. Employees can bookmark the official login page to avoid future confusion. Once on the login page, employees must enter their User ID and password. The User ID is typically the employee number, while the password is either assigned by HR or set by the employee during the initial login. Here are some important points to keep in mind when entering credentials: Ensure that the Caps Lock key is off, as passwords are case-sensitive. Double-check for any typos before proceeding. If using a shared device, avoid saving credentials for security reasons. After entering the correct credentials, clicking on the "Login" button will direct the employee to the dashboard. When creating a new password, employees should follow these security guidelines: Use a combination of uppercase and lowercase letters, numbers, and special characters. Avoid using easily guessable information such as birthdays, employee numbers, or simple phrases. Keep the new password secure and do not share it with others. After setting the new password, employees can return to the ACES ETM login page and enter their updated credentials to access their accounts. One of the most frequently used features of the ACES ETM system is the work schedule section. Employees can view their upcoming shifts, request time off, and swap shifts if necessary.
