However, if you download the videos to watch them online, you would be falling outside of what Google originally required by Google's rules. The reason: watching videos offline takes money out of Google's pocket. It could also take money out of the wallets of video creators (except for non-monetized videos). They want to know? How to download online videos for free from any website and watch offline? Video sharing sites display different types of ads, including pre-roll and interstitial ads. This is how they make money, and some donors do. Google's goal is to provide you with great quality free videos when you watch or click on ads.
