PERFORMANCE

This tutorial will guide you through a technique to develop your expressive, playful, hand-drawn style. You will be guided through the generation of ideas and character design and advice will be given on how to govern space to create balance and harmony in your creations. I used to spend too many hours in the font lists, desperately trying to find the right one, but with nothing that really hit the spot. In the end, I realized it would be a good idea to start taking the pen and notebook to design my solutions. Rather than wallowing in those indecision nightmare lists. Starting with the details of the characters and trying to capture the mood you want to convey with printing is a set of useful skills. Yes, it takes practice, but every time you try, you will learn a lot of new things. For example, designing your type really helps you to understand how subtle differences can have a big general effect and how wrong type choices can really cloud your concept. This tutorial will help you start creating your fonts. In the next three pages, I will share with you a technique and a process that I have developed over the years. First, you will have to put your materials in order. Nothing too fancy: just some A3 drawing paper, a 2H pencil, thin lining, a good rubber, a ruler and adhesive tape. Let's start.1 Study Fountains by familiarizing yourself with font characters. Open a program like Adobe InDesign or Illustrator and type the alphabet in some favorites. Make sure why © You like them, and what consistency and inconsistencies are evident. Next, open your sketch album and start experimenting freely with different types of characters. Start by drawing some characters from your favorite list; As you build security, start adding yours. It's not right or at this point, so play.3 Draw freely You should be sure enough to use a concept to help tie tie your sketches together. Here, I'm creating the main printer for a fake tattoo parlor called You can use the Loapsuscfriceencee.jpg file for inspiration.4 Two sheetsOnce you226; They are satisfied with your relaxed sketch, so time to start to a bigger, more focused version. Take two tracking paper sheets and l in e them up on top of each other. Use a tape strip to put them together, fold it over the top.5 Draw the guides on the bottom sheet, start marking some guides so you can position your characters accurately. Divide the page by its width and length to find the central point of the paper. From that point, draw lines through the full width in 4cm increments, as shown here.6 Simple Rules Our first word has six characters, which way128; Space evenly through the upper part. However, we must establish a couple of rules. For example, the o r n must be wider than D, u and s. Aim for approximately 1cm for the width of the steles (marked in the image).7 Sketch Characterizers This step requires some trial and error. Start with an approximation of your characters, paying attention to the spacing through the full width of the page and between each character, as well as their height. Don't try to be exact; just have a feeling for drawing and space.8 Introduce Next consistency, make some small changes to some of the characters to introduce consistency. Note here or there, that now has vertical stress at the center. Study your characters, checking each one to see where consistency can be incorporated.9 Draw oOnce you're happy with how your first word is working, it's time to move on to the next one. In our example, this is force. It started by drawing the center in the middle of page, which fills a space that will approximately 2.5x2.5cm in size. Then the f and r went into space equally on both sides. Note that you226; You must take into account the spurs on o r series on r when you226; What? re; you226; What? re; This.10 Tie a ribbon time to add some decorations. Put two stars uniformly from F and R and then start facing a tape form. Give strength a little'breath and make sure to keep the width and height equal in a l l four sections: the front part, the wrapping and the extremities.11 push to make it pass'flexion'. Measures the width of the points by adding vertical guide s aligned with the stem of P and the end of the s to be used as starting and end points. Then create a baseline by drawing a guide from 1 cm above the lower guide already in Place.12 Scroll a balance sheet to balance sketches, flex, trying to strike a balance between each letter. Most of these characters (every 5,5 cm of width) are made with the same parts. The stems are wide from 1,5 cm with a line set from 5 mm to left. I have scored more consistency to consider, also 15.13 Describing a letter of curveth S will be the most complicated with the other characters who are so straight, it will shut off like a sore thumb, launching the balance of the word. Keep the S curve to 1,5 cm in the center, then corresponds to the stems in the rest of the characters.14 Fake ITONCE You are happy, it is time to use the top sheet of the tracking paper you have attached before to really add finesse to your drawing. This should be the fun part. Remember that you can simply replace the card if you need to start again because © think you can do better.15 InK Upwhen You'VE completed the top sheet, it's time to use it as the template to ink a final version. Remove the bottom sheet of the tracer card and place a new sheet over the top by sticking it with the tape. Start tracing your borders with a pen.16 ADD EFFECTSWith The ready borders, the Instead of making them black solids, you might want to try some effects. I have experienced creating the illusion of light with stippling, or making traits that fade away as they pass through the light.17 experimentsdon was afraid to experiment; you can easily the top sheet, so you don't have to start from scratch. I made a fleshy mess, making the lines too thick and creating a schigey H, so I started on a new top sheet. When you're finished, it's time to scan it in.18 Highly re s Open File Scan and open the files in Photoshop. If, like me, you only have one A4 scanner, sew the two parts together and select the layers of Image > Adaptations > Tweek the sliders so that the blacks become darker and the whites become lighter, creating more contrast.19 Photoshop magicNow choose Select > Colour Range. Click on the highlighted area and press OK. Next, you should create a new layer, keeping the selection of the frame around the object. Press Shift+Delete. Select a color you want and press Return. Now you have a free item you can use as you like. For more information on type terms and tips, check out what is Typhoraphy? and the best free font posts on our sister site Creative Bloq. Block!
